Patina

Author's Notes:
Since there was no prompt on Wednesday for the drabble challenge, I picked the word of the day on Merriam Webster\'s website for Thursday which was patina :)

Dark.

It's what I see when I look at him.

Dark hair, dark eyes, dark heart.

He's open for the audience, but hides away when you get too close.

A stark contrast to the glow of myself.

Together, we cancel each other out. Like our own personal ying-yang symbol.

A swirl of white and a swirl of black. Interchanged and entwined.

It wasn't always like this. We had to work at it, or rather I did.

It's cliché to say "tame the wild beast".

But.

There's a hint of fire behind his eyes, waiting to challenge me all over again.
